

Family History: Genealogy Made Easy

with Lisa Louise Cooke

Republished 2013

Welcome to this step-by-step series for beginning genealogists—and more experienced ones who want to brush up or learn something new. I first ran this series in 2008. So many people have asked about it, I'm bringing it back in weekly segments.

Episode 12: Post Your Family Tree Online

In this episode we focus on posting your family tree online. There's no use in re-inventing the research wheel! By posting what you know about your family tree online you can easily connect with others who are researching people in your family tree. You can share information, collaborate and even get to know distant relatives.

In our second segment, we welcome Kenny Freestone, Senior Product Manager at Ancestry.com with primary responsibility for Ancestry's Family Tree Feature. Kenny's not only going to walk us through the process of setting up and using our family tree on Ancestry but this tree expert will be giving us his Top 5 Tips making the most of them.

Updates and Links

A few things have changed in online family tree services, including the 2013 acquisition of Geni.com by MyHeritage and the end of GeneTree. Check out these great sites for creating free family trees (you will need to create a free login to use these sites):
